An Immense Stock of Boots and Shoes for Fall and Winter Wear has been received at the Shoe Store of

R. W. THOMAS, 111 ON BROADWAY.

The stock consists in part of Waterproof Boots that will not leak, Custom Kip Boots that are superior to anything in the town, Waterproof Shoes for Women and Girls in Button and Lace that wear better than Calf or Kip and keep the feet dry. They are the best shoes for winter wear ever put on the market. A large line of these goods has been received and every one should buy a pair for winter wear. They are the best of their kind, and can not be had at the dry goods stores. The prices on these shoes are lower than last fall.

A complete line of the best brands of Rubber Boots and Shoes ready for inspection. We carry a larger line of Boots and Shoes in Leather and Gum Goods than all the rest of the shoe stores in the town put together. We can undersell our neighbors and make as good a profit as they can. We do undersell our neighbors every day in the week, and that is the reason why we sell more Shoes and Boots than they do. There is not a more complete line of Boots and Shoes in Southern Ohio than can be seen at the Shoe Store of R. W. Thomas, and the prices can not be matched. Come and price them. They are cheaper than they can be bought elsewhere.

J. H. M.

Dear wife, the boys are coming again,
I hear the sound of their heavy cheer.
As merry and fearless now, as when
The shadow of war was hovering near:
Like an echoed sound from a distant camp
Is the measured stroke which the drummers beat.
While firm and bold is the steady tramp
Of the Veterans, marching along the street.

The same old boys, as merry and gay,
With hearts as careless of every fate,
As when they cheerily marched away
To brave the fires of Southern hate:
Yet in each hero's head there twines
The streak of snow with the thread of gold.
While over the cheeks the gathering lines
Tell us the boys are fading and old.

But see, dear wife, there's a broken line,
A form heroic has fallen out,
The swaying boughs of the Southern pine
Alone have answers to his dying shout;
Men proudly tell of the fallen brave
Who left on earth but an honored name—
They know not the grief of the hearts that gave
Their darling ones to the field of fame.

The long-roll beats with a hollow sound,
As it sadly rumbles by vale and hill,
Eager, we bend to the silent ground,
To hear the tread of its marching still:
But false and fleeting are mortal joys,
We grasp at pleasure—and hope is gone;
We hear but the tread of our neighbors' boys,
In the pride of victory marching on.

But we'll stifle the noise of our throbbing hearts,
In the mighty wave of a Nation's pride;
When the tear of sorrow unbidden starts,
We'll sweep it away in the rushing tide:
As we proudly look at the grand parade,
And the noble strength of the Veteran line,
There's a hidden joy in the offering made,
In the days of peril, at Freedom's shrine.

So we'll mingle, wife, with the boys to-day,
Where pleasant memories gather fast—
And the joyful present shall drive away
All gloomy thoughts of the distant past:
To-day let the dear old banner wave
Above the heroes who love it well,
And, proudly victorious over the grave,
Proclaim the glory of those who fell.

MILITARY RECORD

JACKSON COUNTY!

The Military record of our County is an honorable one, and reaches a long way back. In speaking of this history, we quote largely from the military history prepared by Judge Miller for the History of the Lower Scioto Valley. Those who are acquainted with the historian methods will know that the sketch is as near accurate as possible.

The first Company of which we have any record is that of Capt. Jared Strong, in the war of 1812. This Company is styled "Ohio Militia, First Odd Battalion," Second Brigade, Second Division, commanded by Major Benjamin Daniels, from the 29th of July, 1813 to the 19th of August 1813, inclusive. Here is the roster:

Capt.—Jared Strong; First Lieut., John Gillespie; Esquire, William Howe; First Sergeant, William Given; Second, John Lake; First Corporal, Salmon Goodenough; Second, Alex Hill; Third, Joseph Lake; Fourth, William Higginbotham. Drummer, Harris Penny; Fifer, James Markey.

Privates—William Hewitt, Thomas M. Caretall, Jessie Watson, Joseph Robbins, William Ellerton, James Phillips, Samuel Aldred, John Serjeant, Samuel Bunn, Stephen Bailey, Henry Point, Joseph Clemens, Joseph Skellenger, John Ogg, James Higginbotham, William Black.

About the year 1848, near the close of the Mexican War, a company of Militia left Jackson for that war. It was commanded by Capt. William Cissna, an old Militiaman. He usually appeared in a gray suit, and with a huge white and red plume, and made a stunning and gorgeous display. This Company contained perhaps twenty men. There is no record of this Company. We remember hearing an old citizen tell of a circumstance connected with this Company.

An old citizen of Jefferson Township enlisted and a friend who took a great interest in him, and had some what inflated ideas of military greatness, took him out to one side, and in a half whisper said: "Now, behave yourself well, be brave and faithful, and you might get to be Orderly Sergeant!"

WAR OF THE REBELLION.
Capt. Churchill recruited the first three years men from Jackson County. These formed Co. E, Twenty-Seventh Ohio, and we give elsewhere a roster of this Company. We frequently met the old Twenty-Seventh on the Georgia campaign, and it used to be a subject of remark among the other troops that the Twenty-Seventh was always moving. There were 163 Jackson County men in the Regiment. Capt. Churchill became the Colonel of the Regiment, and Lieut. Thomas, after accepting a position as Col. of a Colored Regiment, was brevetted Brig. Gen.

The Thirty-Third Ohio contained some nineteen to twenty men from this county. This Regiment was organized at Portsmouth in 1861. Col. Sill, its first Col., was promoted to the rank of Brig. Gen., and afterward killed. Col. O. F. More was his successor to the command of the Regiment. The Regiment has a good record.

The Thirty-Sixth Ohio contained two companies from Jackson County, the rosters of which we print elsewhere. This Regiment was one of the best in the service, and saw as much hot fighting, perhaps, as any command during the war. Gen. George Crook was its first Colonel. The Regiment occupied one of the hottest and most dangerous positions at Chickamauga. It participated in the following battles, besides skirmishes: South Mountain, Antietam, Chickamauga, Hoover's Gap, Chattanooga and Mission Ridge, Cloyd Mountain, Lexington, Lynchburg, Cabetown, Kernstown, Berryville, Opequan, Fisher's Hill, Cedar Creek. The Thirty-Sixth has a glorious record, and many of its wounded are still living in Jackson.

The Fifty-Third Ohio was raised at Jackson. Our people felt a great pride in this Regiment, though it was by no means composed entirely of Jackson County men. Our County was largely represented in the Regiment. This regiment was one of the first attacked and the first to break, at Shiloh, where Gen. Sherman was utterly and completely surprised. A large number of the men were sick, and with all other discomagements, the Col. took to his heels at the first onslaught. The Regiment broke and retreated, but rallied next day and did some magnificent fighting. The war record of this Regiment is second to none in the service. The Regiment traveled 8,400 miles, and engaged in 67 battles and skirmishes. Gen. Sherman, who, to hide his own fatal mistake in being surprised, censured the Regiment severely at Shiloh, wrote of the Regiment in 1864: Under another leader, Col. Jones, it has shared every campaign and expedition of mine since, is with me now, and can march and bivouac, and fight as well as the best Regiments in this or any other army. Its reputation now is equal to that of any Regiment from the State of Ohio." Elsewhere we give a roster of these companies.

The Fifty-Sixth Ohio was raised in the fall of 1861, and sent to Paducah, Ky. It engaged in the following fights during its service: Fort Donelson, Pittsburgh Landing, Corinth, Port Gibson, Champion Hills, Siege of Vicksburg, Jackson, Miss., Carrion Crow Bayou, La., Sabine Cross Roads, Monett's Ferry, Snuggly Point. This Regiment went to the far South, and saw some extremely hard service. A portion of this Regiment was not discharged until April, 1866. There were forty men in this Regiment from this County, under Lieutenant Martin Owens, and thirty-five Welsh boys, under Capt. J. H. Evans. There were some Jackson County boys scattered through other companies. The following list of a portion of the deaths from Jackson County, was furnished the historian by Thomas J. Williams of Co. C: Richard T. Davis, killed at Champion Hill, May 16th, 1863; Henry Richards, at Champion Hill, May 16th, 1863; Evan D. Evans, died at Crump's Landing, March 25th, 1862; Isaac J. Jones, died at St. Louis, April 5th 1862; Thomas J. Morris, killed on Red River, May 4th, 1864; Daniel Phillips, died at Helena, Ark., Aug. 25th, 1862; John H. Williams, killed at Champion Hill, May 16th 1863; Evan Morgan, died at Cincinnati, Nov. 15th, 1863.

The Eighty-Seventh Infantry was organized in 1862, for three months service. Forty men from Jackson County entered the Regiment, twenty-nine under Lieut. George W. Johnson. The Regiment was captured under Col. Miles at Harper's Ferry, in Sept. 1862. The Seventy Ohio Cavalry recruited along the Ohio River, and contained some twelve hundred men when organized. It was a splendid Cavalry Regiment, doing good work in Kentucky and Tennessee, taking part in the pursuit of John Morgan in 1863. Fifty men from Jackson County, under Lieut. Benj. Trago, entered the Regiment, and were assigned to Co. G., which was detailed as a body guard to Gen. Schofield, and accompanied the 23d corps in the Georgia and North Carolina campaigns.

The Ninety-First Ohio Infantry was recruited in Southern Ohio, organized in 1862, and served in the Virginias. James W. Longborn was Adj. of the Regiment for a time. Co. K. was from Jackson County. The officers were, Captains, Levi M. Stephenson and Lewis A. Atkinson; First Lieutenants L. A. Atkinson and Milton Brown; Second Lieutenants, Jacob Thompson, Jerome Plummer and Vincent Radcliff. Capt. Stephenson resigned; Capt. Atkinson received a wound from the effects of which he died a few years since. Died in the service, Barnabus Canter, Aug. 19th, 1863; Henry Downey, Nov. 1st, 1864; A. Gatchall, Oct. 27th, 1863; H. Holcomb, March 27th, 1863; Chis Murray, drowned at Adamsville, Ohio, July 15th, 1863; William Rook, died July 27th, 1863; J. H. Rickabaugh, Oct. 7th, 1864; Henry Rider, April 1st, 1863; John Lucas, killed at Winchester, July 20th, 1864; Peter Rydes, killed at same place; James L. Rhodes, died of wounds Oct. 11th, 1864.

List of Battles—Buffalo, W. Va., Sept. 26th, 1862; Fayetteville Va., May 19th, 1863; Blake's Farm Va., May 9th, 1864; New River Bridge Va., May 10th, 1864; Cow Pasture River Va., June 5th, 1864; Lynchburg Va., June 17th, 1864; Stephenson's Depot Va., July 20th, 1864; Winchester Va., July 24th, 1864; Martinsburg Va., July 25th, 1864; near Charlottesville Va., Aug. 24th and 25th, 1864; Opequan or Winchester Va., Sept. 19th, 1864; Fisher's Hill Va., Sept. 22d, 1864; Cedar Creek Va., Oct. 19th, 1864. This Regiment traveled a distance of 1,229 miles while in service.

The first O. H. A., was organized at Camp Portsmouth in 1862, as the 117th, O. V. I. In 1863 it was organized as the First Heavy Artillery, of twelve Companies of 5 officers and 147 men each, an aggregate of 1839 officers and men; Its principal service was in Kentucky and Tennessee. It was a magnificent Regiment. Mustered out in July 1865. The following is a list of the Jackson Co. men who died in the service: James Winters, Co. H., Ashland Ky., Dec. 2d, 1862; John S. Jones, Co. H., Covington Ky., Aug. 26th, 1863; Parkson Shumate, Co. H., Camp Nelson Ky., March 9th, 1864; William W. McCune, Co. A., Covington Ky., March 10th, 1863; William Brooks, Co. A., Covington Ky., Feb. 24th, 1864; John W. Donahay, Co. A., Portsmouth O., Oct. 29th, 1862; Amos Garrett, Co. A., At home, March 23d, 1865; Moses Hawkins, Co. A., Covington, Ky., April 15, 1863; Harrison Toland, Co. A., Cleveland, Tenn., Nov. 1, 1864; Geo. W. Ross, Co. H., Camp Nelson, Ky., Dec. 2, 1863; William W. Tanner, Co. H., Knoxville, Tenn., 1864; Edwin H. Tatten, Co. H., Knoxville, Tenn., 1864; Judge Miller, S. G. Martin, Maj. Matthews, Lot Davies, S. J. Long, T. J. Edwards, and other prominent citizens of Jackson, served in this regiment. The number of Jackson County men, 275.

The Second O. H. A. contained some 25 men, under Lieut. John Q. Gibson, from Jackson County. W. T. Washam was in this regiment.

The 73d Ohio contained about 40 men from Jackson County, in Capt. Silas Irons' Company, G. They were from the neighborhood of Raysville. John Hildebrand, late Infantry Superintendent, was a Lieutenant in this regiment. It was engaged in the fights of Cross Keys, Second Bull Run, Gettysburg, Lookout Mountain, Chickamauga, New Hope Church, Kenesaw, Peach Tree Creek, Aversboro, Cedar Mountain, Fredericksburg; Chattanooga, Mission Ridge, Resaca, Marietta, Atlanta, Savannah, Bentonville. The following Jackson County boys died in the service: William Burns, killed at Kenesaw; Isaac Willis, killed at Gettysburg; Benj. Fitzgerald, died of wounds; Mason Brown, killed at Second Bull Run; Enoch M. Dettly, died of wounds at Gettysburg; Elisha Leake, killed at Gettysburg; James Ray, killed at Gettysburg; William Radcliff, died in June, 1863; Alex. Speakman, died at Fairfax, 1862; Jacob Sigler, died in hospital near Atlanta; James F. Wellman, died of wounds, Nov., 1862.

The 120th Ohio was a six months organization, and contained 32 men from Jackson County, under Capt. Oliver S. Miller. The regiment served in Kentucky.

The 173d Ohio contained two Jackson County companies, for 100 days service: Co. A, 60 men, Capt. Samuel White; First Lieutenant, Andrew Miller; Second Lieutenant, V. B. Johnson. Co. B, 84 men, Capt. T. J. Evans; First Lieutenant, J. W. Vaughn; Second Lieutenant, William Claar.

In the 173d Ohio, Jackson County had fifty men, 16 under Lieut. Charles Hunt, Capt. Coleman Gillilan's company, a squad in Co. D, under Lieut. Moses Morgan, in Co. F, under Lieut. J. N. Hanna. This regiment served in Tennessee. We append a list of deaths from Co. C, of Jackson County men: James McCulgan, drowned July 1, 1865; George P. Price, died at Nashville, Jan. 17, 1865; Ward W.

Kessinger, died at Nashville, March 12, 1865.

In the 170th Ohio, Jackson County had 120 men, Co. K, under Capt. D. J. Jenkins, and Lieuts. Eben Jones and Evan E. Edwards, and squads under Lieut. Vinton Evans and Capt. Stephen Morgan.

In the 149th Ohio, Jackson County had fifty men, under Lieut. W. W. Buckley. In the 2d W. Va. Cavalry, Jackson County had a company, of which we print a roster:

DEATH OF WAR HORSE.

(Selected)

Gallant "Old Bob," of the Th. Indiana.

Raised With Military Honors.

"Old Bob," the famous war horse of Company F, Third Indiana Cavalry, owned by Private Pollard J. Brown, died Sunday, at the advanced age of thirty-five years, on the farm of Mr. Brown, six miles east of this city, and was buried to-day with military honors, by the General T. J. Harrison Post, of this city. This horse was remarkable for his wonderful endurance. He was of the French "Pacolett" and "Kentucky Whip" stock of horses.

During the rebellion Private Brown served in the Army of the Potomac as a Union scout, and was often intrusted with important dispatches, and frequently made perilous rides on this faithful horse. Mr. Brown is a gallant veteran, now in his seventy-fifth year, and to the "C. G." correspondent stated to-day that "Old Bob" had been shot from under him three times and badly wounded, and that he was under fire over a hundred times. During the battle of Antietam, when the rebel General Stewart with a large force of cavalry passed around the Union army, and was endeavoring to cross the Potomac twenty-five miles below, near where Sedgwick's command was stationed, General McClellan called for a volunteer who would carry a dispatch to General Sedgwick apprising him of the designs of General Stewart. Private Brown promptly responded and led "Old Bob" out for the General's inspection, who pronounced him equal for the task, and started Brown on his famous ride down the Potomac. The trip was made in one hour and resulted in the capture of General Stewart's entire command by General Sedgwick. At the battle General Sedgwick said to Mr. Brown: "That horse is worth thousands of dollars to the Union cause." The death of "Old Bob" will be sad news to the boys of the gallant old Third Indiana Cavalry, who were devotedly attached to him. Mr. Brown is much affected by the death of his faithful "charger," and states his intention to erect a fitting memorial over his final resting place.

All Well.

The 36th boys tell a good one got ten off by the late John J. Long, at one of the battles in Virginia. The fight had reached a critical point, and a column of Johnnies charged that part of the line in which the Thirty-Sixth was stationed. The fight was a lively one, and as usual the old Thirty-Sixth came out victorious. After the fight, the boys were giving their impressions when they saw the Johnnies coming over the ridge. When Long's turn came he remarked: "I noticed them particularly when they came over the ridge. They were all eight feet high, and every one of them well—not a sick man among them!"
